FeONIC Transport Limited

Following the advent of the commissioning of the production line for the new F series actuators, the Company is pleased to announce that an agreement has been signed with First Class Partnerships Limited on the formation of an associate company, FeONIC Transport Limited.

This company will be a wholly dedicated sales entity for exploiting the FeONIC® technology in the transport sector. Already strong links have been established with Transport for London, Network Rail, Tubelines amongst others. Spending in the UK alone on new investments in the rail network will total £2.5billion over the next two years. This will include remodeling of some major stations as well as rolling stock.

It has been acknowledged that the FeONIC technology can produce highly intelligible audio which can improve the quality of announcements in public areas in a way that is both cost effective and vandal proof.

First Class Partnerships Limited (www.firstclasspartnerships.com), are a successful consultancy with many years experience in the transport sector.
